IMPORTANT.

The firm of Bowling & Willson, before the dissolution, bought for the coming season their usual Large Stock of Ziegler and other lines of Ladies', Misses' and Children's

Fine Shoes and Slippers, Children's School Shoes,

Men's, Youths' and Boys' FINE SHOES, John B. Stetson & Co.'s

FINE SOFT AND STIFF HATS,

Collars, Cuffs, Scarfs, Neckties, Underwear, Etc.

Of other manufacturers. None of the above orders could be canceled, as the goods were in the works, and many of them ready to ship. No other house in Clarksville will receive a larger stock of Boots, Shoes, Hats and Furnishing Goods than I will this season.

THERE WILL BE $20,000 WORTH OF AT LEAST BOOTS, SHOES, &c

That I have instructed H. B. Willson, S. R. Daly, M. L. Cross and Willie Yates to sell at just sufficient profit to pay expense of selling them. I don't want anything out of the business this year. My sole object is to reduce the stock so I can close it out to another party next year. I have no fine storehouse to blow about and pay big rent for (I pay no rent). Fine stores don't make goods any cheaper or better, but on the contrary, it takes big profits to keep up fine stores and make big displays, but I have the finest Shoes, Hats, etc. So ponder well the above truths. Come and examine the stock, and you will be convinced that this is no "cheap talk," but Cold Facts, and that you can save from 25 cents to $1.50 on every hat or pair of shoes you buy this year.

Respectfully,

J. M. BOWLING.

STONE THE WOMAN.

Yes, stone the woman—let the man go free! Draw back your slings, let them perchance May touch her garments as she passes; But to him put forth a willing hand To clasp with his that let her to destruction And disgrace. Shut up from her the sacred ways of toil, that she may no more win an honest meal, but owe to him all honorable Fads where he may win distinction. Give him fair, pressed-down measures Of life's sweetest joys. Pass her, Oh, maiden, with a pure, proud face. If she puts out a poor polluted palm, But lay thy hand in his on his bridal day, And swear to cling to him With widely love and tender reverence; Trust him who led a sinner woman To a fearful fate.

Yes, stone the woman—let the man go free! Let one soul suffer for the guilt of two. Is the doctrine of a hurried world, Too out of breath for holding balances Where nice distinctions with injustices Are calmly weighed. But all how will it be On that strange day of final fire and flame. When men shall stand before the one True Judge? Shall we men then A difference in sin? Shall He, The searcher of the hidden heart, In His eternal and divine decree, Condemn the woman and forgive the man?

A BETROTHAL.

FRANK DEMPSTER SHERMAN.

"I love you," he whispered low,
In joy for a moment bold;
And suddenly, white as snow,
The warm little hand grew cold.

"I love you," again he said,
And touched the soft finger tips;
But shyly she bent her head
To hide the two trembling lips.

"I love you"—she turned her face,
His heart overfilled with fear;
When lo! on her cheek the trace
Of one tiny passion tear!

"I love you," he gently spoke
And kissed her sweetest cheek;
The rose blossom fatters broke;
"I love you, too," she replied.

The Fowler Pet.

BY BENEGAN.

The old Idlewild, flagship of the McCracken navy, was a bully boat. In her day she beat 'um all and ran without peer or rival in the lower Ohio. She was faster than a Jackson Purchase quarter horse, and more beautiful than a sea bird floating far inland from the main. Well it's no use talkin'. She was sweeter than pie, and gamer than one of Ike West's cocks.

When this favorite packet came out she was commanded by the chivalric Gus Fowler—one of Morgan's men; clerked by Willie Fowler, and managed 'long shore' by Dick Fowler. On her maiden trip, as special guests, the following named persons were entertained by the Judge Fowler, and his wife, Col. Silverthorne and Little old Toffel, the mouth of Smithland's daring navigator who discovered Cairo, and turned it over to Sam Wilson, with the right and privilege of gathering pawpaws, catching cat fish, drinking sipe water, and selling boat stores as long as he might live. That boat has long since quit scraping, and all these mentioned persons are dead and gone. Of this boat nothing now remains, except one of her original owners, and the surviving brother of the Fowler boys, and her familiarly sounding whistle on the Gus Fowler, which now daily wakes the slumbering echoes of the sleepy bay of McCracken.

WHERE THEY ARE.

The Present Whereabouts of the Great Confederate Generals.

Of the six full generals appointed by the confederate congress, only two survive—Joseph E. Johnston, now United States commissioner of railroads, and G. T. Beauregard, adjutant general of Louisiana, and manager of the Louisiana lottery drawings.

Of the twenty lieutenant generals appointed to the provisional army several are living. E. Kirby Smith is professor of Mathematics in the University of the South, in Tennessee. James Longstreet is keeping a hotel down in Georgia. D. H. Hill of North Carolina earns a living as magazine writer. Richard Taylor, son of President Taylor, is engaged in building a canal near New Orleans. Stephen B. Lee is a farmer and President of the state agricultural college of Mississippi. Jubal A. Early practices law at Lynchburg, although his chief support is derived from his connection with the Louisiana Lottery company. A. P. Stewart is now president of the University of Mississippi at Oxford.

Of the major generals, Wade Hampton is up in the north end of the capitol, where is likely to remain for life. Joseph Wheeler is in congress, is very wealthy, and one of the largest planters in Alabama. John B. Gordon is a millionaire railroad man. Gen. Loring of Florida is engineering in New York. B. F. Cheatham was recently appointed postmaster at Nashville Tenn. "Sam Jones of Virginia is in the judge advocate general's office. Lafayette, McLaws is post-master at Savannah, Ga. S. B. Buckner lives in Louisville, Ky. S. B. French earns a scanty subsistence by engineering in Georgia. C. L. Stephenson is in Fredericksburg, Va. John H. Forney, brother of Congressman Forney, is in an insane asylum at Selma, Ala.; Abney H. Muray, is Washington agent of a New York life insurance company; John G. Walker is also in the insurance business in Washington; Isaac R. Trimble is in retirement in Baltimore; Gen. Heath is employed by the government to do engineering on some southern rivers; Cadmus Wilcox is writing a history of the Mexican war; Fitzhugh Lee is governor of Virginia, "Extra Billy" Smith practices law at Warrenton, Va. Charles W. Field is superintendent of the Hot Springs reservation. Wm. B. Bate is governor of Tennessee. W. H. F. Lee is a Fairfax county farmer. C. J. Peligrae, who came over from France to espouse the confederate cause, is back in Paris, busied with immense railroad operations. J. E. Fagan is at Little Rock. William Mahone is in the senate, as is E. C. Walthall of Mississippi. John S. Marmaduke is governor of Missouri. Pierce M. B. Young has gone to Russia as United States consul general at St. Petersburg. M. C. Butler is a senator of the United States. Thos. L. Russell has settled down at his old home, Charlottesville, Va.

Only a few of the several hundred brigadier generals can be mentioned. West Adams is postmaster at Jackson, Miss. Frank Armstrong is now waiting the senate's confirmation to be Indian agent, but as the charge of desertion against him seems to be pretty well substantiated, it is not likely that he will ever have anything to do with the red man. John C. Brown was twice governor of Tennessee, built the Texas Pacific railroad for Jay Gould; and is the latter's attorney for all of his roads west of the Mississippi, as well as receiver for the Texas Pacific, with headquarters at Dallas. J. R. Chalmers represented the "Shoe-string" district in Mississippi in congress until he was left last fall by party splits. John B. Clark of Missouri is clerk of the United States house of representatives. E. M. Cockrell and A. H. Colquitt are United States senators. R. E. Colston is in the surgeon generals office. W. R. Cox of North Carolina is in the house. X. B. Do Bray is commissioner of land office of Texas. Basil Duke edits the Southern Bivouac at Clarksville, Ky. J. T. Morgan of Alabama and S. B. Maxey of Texas are United States senators. A. M. Scales is governor of North Carolina. C. M. Shelly is third auditor of the treasury. E. L. Thomas is in the land office of the interior department. R. M. Vance is assistant commissioner of patents. A hundred more brigadiers are scattered over the country, most of them engaged in civil engineering.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS.

How an Autauga County Man Sowed Twelve Dollars and Reaped Fifteen Thousand.

Mr. Wm. Hunt of Vinetown, a small place about twenty miles from Selma, in Autauga county, on the East Tenn. Va., & Ga. R. R., was the lucky man in the May drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery. In conversation yesterday with a Times reporter at his home, the following questions were asked and answers given:

"I am told you struck the Louisiana State Lottery rich?" said the reporter.

"Well," replied Mr. Hunt, "I don't know whether you call it rich or not, but I certainly have $15,000 which I drew in the 11th of May."

"How long have you been investing in the Louisiana, and what have you paid out?"

"I have been sending a dollar a month for the past twelve months and the twelfth dollar brought me $15,000."

"How did you get your money?"

"Well, you see I was notified first by a printed circular, which had all the numbers that drew prizes in it. I deposited my ticket on the 17th of May with the City National Bank of your city, and on the 22d, five days later, I had my money; and right there," continued the speaker, "I want you to say that I had no trouble in getting the amount my ticket called for. It came promptly."

In conversation further Mr. Hunt said: "I am thirty-nine years old. I have a wife and three children. I own the place I live on, and farm and merchandise some. I was behind five or six hundred dollars when I drew the money from the lottery; but that put me on my feet, and I paid my debts. I have put out $1,300 on good interest, and will turn the other into paying investment. For $1 I drew a fifth of the capital prize, and I am going to continue to send one dollar every month so long as I can raise that amount. I believe the business is properly carried on, and I shall patronize it in the future."

MEMPHIS Appeal. The Clarksville Chronicle is right. There never was just such a lack of reason in support or opposition to any measure as is shown by the opponents of the Blair bill. The Federal government turned loose on the South a mass of illiterate voters just freed from slavery, and thus increased the educational burden of this section, which entitles the South to national aid in relieving this illiteracy. An objection to the Blair bill is based simply on objection to public education of any kind. It comes from men who think the benefits of education should be confined to the few.

Miraculous Escape.

W. W. Reed, druggist, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "One of my customers, Mrs. Louisa Pike, Bartonia, Randolph Co., Ind., was a long sufferer with Consumption, and was given up to die by her physicians. She heard of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and began buying it of me. In six months' time she walked to this city, a distance of six miles, and is now so much improved she has quit using it. She feels she owes her life to it." HER NAME.

ANNA F. BURNHAM.

"I'm lost! Could you find me, please?"

Poor little frightened baby!

The wind had tossed her golden tresses. The stones had scratched her dimpled knees; I stooped and lifted her with ease. And softly whispered "May be."

"Tell me your name, my little maid?"

"I can't find you without it."

"My name is 'Shiney-eyes,'" she said.

"Yes, but your last name?" She shook her head.

"Up to my home 'ey never said

A single word about it."

"But, dear," I said, "what is your name?"

"Why, didn't you hear me told you?"

"Just 'Shiney-eyes.'" A bright thought came: "Yes, when you're good; but when they blame You, little one, is it just the same When mamma has to scold you?"

"My mamma never scolds," she moans, A little blush ensuing.

"Cep't when I've been a-drowling stones, And then she says (the culprit owns) 'Mighty little Shapin' Jones.'"

"What has you been a-drow'ing?"

The members of the graduating class were Miss Minnie Salles, Miss Leona Carkuff, Miss Drusilla Diehl, Miss Sallie Weeks and Miss Mollie Griffey. Each of these read essays; Miss Carkuff read the salutatory and Miss Weeks the valedictory. The essays were all meritorious and commendable.

Fun to See

How some of the shoe men are taking it to heart because J. M. Bowling proposes to give the people all opportunity to buy goods this year at just a fraction over manufacturers prices—but boots, shoes, hats and gents' furnishing goods will be sold at closer prices than ever before and J. M. Bowling is the man who has made the break in prices. A large fresh stock to select from.

WANTS TO BE A DRUMMER.

A Touching Poem Touching on a Male Man's Physical Incapacity.

Nashville Union.

The following correspondence between a Nashville drummer and one of his country cousins explains itself:

RATTLE SNAKE CAYE, May 19, '86.—

Dear Cousin Perry: I am tired of farming and want a situation in a good house in the city. I think I would like drumming. I wish you would try to get me a situation. Salary is no object. I would be willing to work for $100 a month until I sorter got the run of things. You know I know all the merchants up in the cave, and think I could sell 'em all. Fact of the business is, three of them are kin to me, and the other one is an old schoolmate. I wrote to several firms in your city, offering my services at what I thought was reasonable, enough, but have got no place yet. I have been looking over the want column of the Nashville papers, but see nothing wanted just a "wet nurse." I don't understand what that means, Cousin Perry. However, you may investigate it, and if you think it will suit me, please secure me the place at once and no one will appreciate your kindness more or strive harder to give satisfaction than your cousin.

NED.

NASHVILLE, TENN., May 23.—Dear Cousin Ned: Your kind letter read this morning, and I hasten to reply to same to let you know that there is no opening for you in the news just now. I would advise you to farm a few more years before coming to the city to live. Yes I think you would make a splendid drummer, but take my advice, Ned, and don't go on the road; as long as you can get a job of building rock fences or mending rails. If you should be so unfortunate as to get on the road don't flatter yourself that you can sell your relatives and old schoolmates. Such egotism made your Cousin Ned very sad after he got on the road. That position you saw advertised in the "want column" will not suit you, Cousin Ned.

A man can sow and a man can patch 'Till his head turns a beautiful gray, But he can ne'er do the "wet nurse" act Because he's built that way.

Your cousin,

PERRY.

GEORGIA planters kill a good many crows and the way of doing it is thus described: "Catch one of the birds, tie it on your body, and walk through the field with your gun cocked and your finger on the trigger. The cries of the bird will cause others of its tribe to flock around you and they can then be easily shot."

A FRENCH physician asserts that he has discovered a specific whose effects can be exactly limited to the time required. This will he says enable travelers to sleep comfortably and confidently during a journey. He measured his dose by miles. Thus, you can take a fifty mile dose before starting on a railroad journey, and open your eyes, pleasantly refreshed, at your proper station.
